

The IRO organizes every year an International Summer School in our university.

Universidade da Coruña's International Summer School (ISS) was set up in 2014 and has offered a broad selection of intensive courses taught in English by international faculty on a wide array of topics ranging from law and business to science and technology. Dozens of teachers and hundreds of students from 40+ different countries have participated in this experience. Courses have had an academic value of 6 ECTS credits, and have been recognised by Universidade da Coruña and dozens of other universities around the world towards credit for their own degrees.

We contact you to inform that the Call for Course Proposals ISS 2019 is published on our website. It will be open till December 14th.
